A YEAR OF YOUR LIFE AT LENOIR HIGH SCHOOL

Fresh, eager, new, and challenging, this year at L. H. S. began with many new surroundings. Throngs of fans with frost-bitten noses and cold knees watched as the Bearcats fought for yardage, both at home and away. Basketball season opened with high hopes and low temperatures; then came the jubilance of the Christmas holidays. Afterwards, the exhausting study for exams, complete collapse, and back to work again. Term papers, bibliographies, notes, and endless pencil copies and revisions caused worry and wonder that homework would ever be finished. Seniors took a long look into the future as College Entrance Exams began the serious preparation for the years after graduation. In the spring came baseball, golf, and track; the senior play; Junior-Senior; and club picnics. With the end of the year, underclassmen realize that there will be other high school years, but seniors have the bittersweet knowledge that this is the closing of a door in their life. We sincerely hope to have captured in words, in pictures, and in spirit, your fondest memories of this 1962-1963 school year as we present it here . . . in retrospect.

Miss Georgia Haley

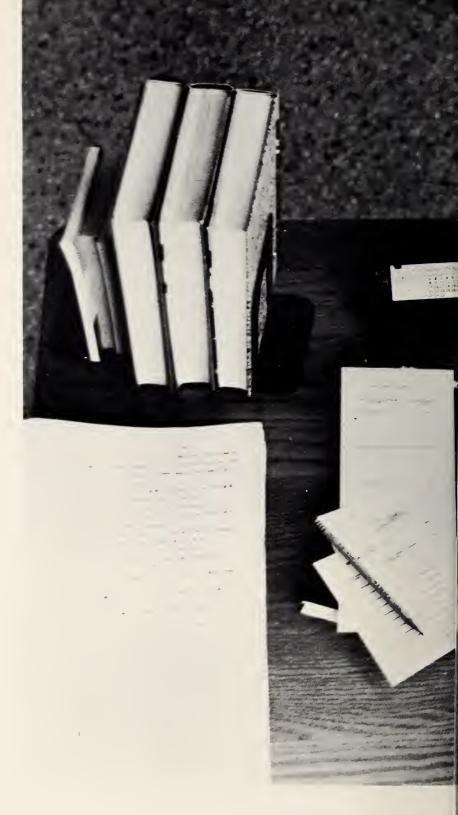

DEDICATION

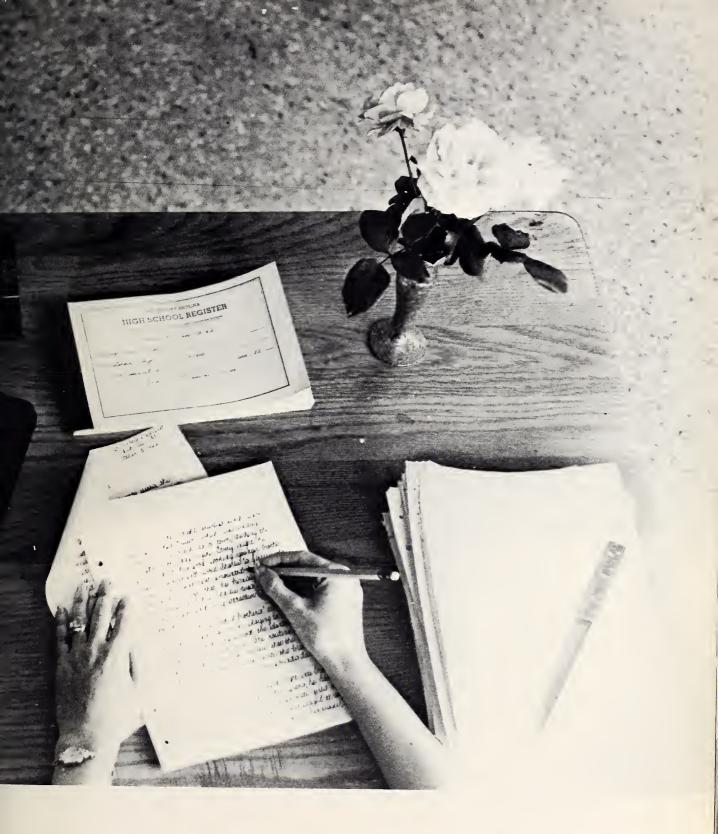

With her infinite storehouse of learning she teaches the students of Lenoir High perceptiveness and knowledge gained not only from textbooks but from life's experiences. She prompts them to become individualists and perfectionists. Her way of life is instilled in the minds and hearts of the students of L. H. S. For these reasons and countless others, we, the student body, dedicate this 1963 BEARCAT to Miss Georgia Haley.

Miss Haley drills her young Romans in the fundamentals of Latin.

Forbearing, understanding, efficient — these are only a few of the outstanding qualities of the dedicated people who continue to toil far beyond normal endurance to give L. H. S. the best of everything. They carry the responsibility of achieving a quality of education unsurpassed by today's ever-increasing demands. The administration, school board, and faculty of Lenoir High School have, in the 1962-1963 school year, met their responsibility with flying colors to make L. H. S. truly great.

ADMINISTRATION

The work of the school board, vitally essential to Lenoir High School, is often overlooked. The characteristic hard work of the members provided the school with new classrooms. This group hires a capable administration for L. H. S. High ideals and tireless effort to create a better school are the aims of these citizens.

Choirmon George T. Crowell keeps the school board functioning smoothly.

SCHOOL BOARD

Trying to keep up with the constantly expanding school needs of Lenoir are the members of the school board: Mr. Charles E. Dobbin, Dr. Donald W. Lockey, Mr. T. Glen Miller, Jr., Mrs. Boxter S. Troutman, Mr. George T. Crowell, Mr. J. B. Houston, and Mr. Clorence Holden.

PRINCIPAL

Mr. McFadyen is the respected coordinator between the students and the teachers of L. H. S. His professional qualifications, along with emotional stability and sincere interest in every student, effect a progressive environment. He helps students make decisions for the future concerning a competent education.

Mr. Henry C. McFadyen is the principal of Lenoir High School. His patience, understanding, and devotion help to make a fine school.

Mrs. Turner Nelson is the capable secretary to Mr. McFadyen, Her services are invaluable to L. H. S.

The superintendent of the Lenoir city school system is Mr. J. G. Hagaman.

SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Hagaman's energetic leadership and influence are invaluable to L. H. S. He combines integrity and active endeavor toward the improvement of the school, and his never-ending efforts make Lenoir city schools excellent ones.

The efficient secretary to Mr. J. G. Hagaman is Mrs. Doris Lingle. The services she renders are indispensable to the school system.

Miss Hardy tells Terry Clork that his verb tenses don't ogree in his composition for English II os others compore their work.

For an individual to learn to express himself, his ideas, and emotions is one of the truly wonderful rewards of education. From the thoughts of great writers, and from their experiences, their understanding and concern for human nature, students gain a clearer insight of themselves. From themes and class discussion, not only have students acquired polish in the skills of grammar and speech, but also have learned to put into perspective their ideas. These moments of gleaning and sharing ideas will one day be the guideposts of their lives.

ENGLISH—LIBRARY

Theme writing is difficult. Words sometimes just don't come. The mind goes blank, and one's thoughts are few ond for between. Mike Gibbons is fighting this bottle. Soon, if he tries hord enough, the words will come; the bottle will be won.

Selecting enjoyoble reading material from the library's collection are Eddie Boldin and Myro Dickson.

Tom Shufard and Ralph Prestwoad are diligent cowarkers in the enigma of advanced math.

Students at the baard find that the work in general math isn't sa hard after all.

MATHEMATICS

"Volunteering" to work problems on the board—sweating over a geometry proof or a chemical equation or math homework—graphing or balancing an account book—returning for "seventh period" or coming in before school to get a problem straight . . . More than likely students don't look upon these as privileges, but they are. To understand much about the complex scientific world, to be successful in business, even to balance the family budget requires a working knowledge of math. Yes, here are the privileges, the opportunities to give students a sound basis in an essential area of the future.

Beneficial charts aid first year algebra students in understanding the basic ideas af algebra.

Judy Burgess demonstrates that in geametry classes o few simple tools in the right hands can produce intricate designs.

These juniors are passing out the weekly edition of Senior Scholastic in U. S. History.

Mr. Hope tells his civic class that representative government is important in a democracy.

The ability to read and draw accurate maps is one of the skills learned in world history.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Social studies have provided students with the opportunity of delving into the depth and breadth of human existence: the when's of history, the where's of geography, the how's of economics and governments, the why's of current events. The understanding of customs and peoples unlike us which we have gained in these courses has broadened our horizons and given us a deeper understanding of ourselves.

Carol Suddreth is using magazines to supplement her work in sociology and economics.

"Oooh, what o horrible thing to do to o frog!" Jock Doll ond his fellow biology clossmotes inspect the "innords" of o frog.

Bob Seila is meticulously measuring reoctonts in chemistry.

SCIENCES

Long assignment sheets, making oxygen and hydrogen in the lab, dissecting frogs and earthworms—these are a few memories of science at L. H. S. Students have studied life and their surroundings in biology, the earth and its composition in chemistry, the fundamental physical laws of nature in physics, new developments in science in senior science, and the skills of homemaking. This knowledge is but a stepping stone, for there is no area of study so challenging or offering greater opportunity for the future.

Beth Lackey and Emily Roby ore working together on a wrap-oround skirt in home economics.

Chemistry students Jan Price, Bob Seilo, ond Judy Harris, with the oid of Mr. Byrd, are generoting hydragen and reducing cupric oxide.

Freshmen find that Spanish 9, a new course at L. H. S., is fun and educational.

"Latino" provides an interesting and educational break fram routine translation and sentence drills.

Latin II students learn their work through working with various prajects such as this ad in Haliday.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Latin and Spanish require much time and concentration to understand tedious points of grammar, to learn long vocabularies and memorize expressions, and to work out an almost perfect translation. Through Latin, students grasp a keener insight into their own language and into other foreign languages. Through Spanish (the simplest foreign language, Mr. Lorenzo calls it) students become acquainted with the language of the people of Spain and the Latin American countries. Through it all, they acquire the ability to communicate with others, a giant step on the road to international understanding.

Peggy Beach and Steve Pennell read aloud fram their Spanish ''storyboaks.''

In Typing II Herb Crowell tries to make this copy perfect.

Students in bookkeeping learn how to keep their accounts straight.

Mrs. Jarratt assures Janet Thomas that college will be rewarding and helpful.

These seniors, Richard Triplett, Bill Cole, and Steve Pennell, are searching through the college catalogs for colleges which will meet their needs.

COMMERCIAL GUIDANCE

Commercial classes at L. H. S. are the only classes which prepare students to begin a career immediately following graduation. Business fundamentals requisite in the competitive world of tomorrow are taught.

Competent advice can lead to a clear path in the maze of perplexity which often confronts each student. This advice is provided by our competent guidance counselor.

MUSIC

These four girls in the Glee Club, Linda Crump, Linda Fox, Rebecca Brawley, and Teresa Braswell, familiarize themselves with a new piece of music.

DRAMATICS

Providing an outlet for the talents of its students is an important responsibility of the school. Such an outlet is provided at L. H. S. by the Chorus, Band, and Masquers.

In the music department, a student learns the basic elements of music theory and develops an appreciation for fine musical works.

Students in dramatics classes become adept in portraying character and gain poise in appearing before an audience.

Elizabeth Beach and Tommy Kent artfully read their parts in a play to their fellow Masquers.

The boys' phys. ed. classes play fast games af faatball, basketball, and baseball in their respective seasans.

"Don't bend thase knees!" Mrs. Balick reminds girls in 9th grade physical education.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The physical education and the industrial arts departments offer practical knowledge and useful experience.

In physical education classes, essentials of physical exercise, steps toward sound body tone, and good sportsmanship in sports, school, and everyday activities are stressed.

In industrial arts, boys are taught vocational skills which will help them to increase their earning power in later years and will afford them many hours of productive leisure activity now and in the future.

These freshmen are learning methods of first aid in health class.

"Where's that ather carburetor?" Gary Maltba, Walter Clement, and Sammy George find industrial arts quite interesting.

Mike Hart finds that patience helps determine his success ar failure in mechanical drawing.

Mrs. Honeycutt, Mabel Bawers, and Mary Shatley begin to prepare the day's meal.

LUNCHROOM STAFF

The lunchroom staff is responsible for filling students with hot, nourishing food. Each day these women perform a vital task by planning and serving well-balanced meals and cheerfully dishing up seconds to lines of hungry boys.

Stanley Bawers, Marshall Carpening, and Raymond Ferguson keep L. H. S. attractive and in warking order.

CUSTODIANS

Working long hours to do a hard job expertly, the custodians of Lenoir High still find time to be friendly and to render extra services when needed.

In every phase of life, there is keen competition, and Lenoir High is no exception. Students must have high goals and must strive always to reach them. They must not only seek to attain the zenith of scholastic ideals but also to better their personalities and widen their interests. At L. H. S. friendships made in the halls and in classrooms become memories to cherish. And, though the course of these four years may seem far from easy, the rewards know no bounds.

CLASSES

Much protesting patience, and balancing went into making this picture of the senior football players.

WE LEAVE THESE FOUR YEARS BEHIND US WITH PRIDE AS . . .

Linda Fox, Mary Hamilton Bruce, and Stan Tate are getting their caps and gowns for the big moment when they receive their diplomas.

The announcements for the day are expertly read by Duff Armfield.

The oble leoders of the closs of '63 ore Sondro Riddle, secretory; Mrs. A. H. Jorratt, senior adviser; Richard Triplett, treasurer; Buddy Barlowe, vice-president; ond Rolph Prestwood, president.

SENIORS

One duty of the Senior Advisory Council is to oppoint committees for all commencement activities. First row: Linda Fox, Sondra Riddle, Corol Rooch, and Mary Hamilton Bruce. Second row: Duff Armfield, Ralph Prestwood, Bobby Query, Bill Broyhill, Bruce Davis, and Stan Tate. Third row: Richard Triplett and Buddy Barlowe.

With anticipation and a zest for life these seniors entered L. H. S. for their final year. In the fall Honor Society members were chosen, and superlatives were elected. In the spring they were honored at an exciting Junior-Senior, worked for scholarship honors, and presented another thrilling senior play. And finally, caps and gowns were donned, and they received their hard-earned diplomas.

JUNIORS

SOPHOMORES

After completing a year at L. H. S., sophomores feel more a part of the activities. Instead of being slaves, they were masters during Latin slave week. They study the mysteries of life in biology classes and try to understand and apply the techniques of geometry. They find that work is the only real key to success.

Education is a term which covers many fields. One of these fields is learning to participate, to lead, and to be led. At L. H. S. there are varied organizations in which everyone can develop this talent, whether it be mastering a language or singing a song. Here is gained a deep satisfaction and a belief in one's own abilities. There is a warmth of belonging which begins with the initiation and lasts throughout the span of life.

THE 1963 LENOIR HIGH SCHOOL BAND

Sherlene Cooper daringly plays with fire as she gives an autstanding half time performance.

Pre-school and sixth period drill account for precise and colorful exhibitians at the band's many appearances.

In many ways, the 1962-1963 band year was similar to all the others. Early morning marching drill followed by the frantic rush to homerooms, the Davidson homecoming game, playing and marching at home games, bumping to out-of-town games in cold band busses, the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville, and, of course, ever-striving for that Superior rating are annual band activities.

But in other ways this band year was better than ever. A twenty-five-year-old dream, the other half of the band building, was completed. One of the largest bands in Lenoir's history played for the American Bandmasters' Convention in Greensboro, and for the visit of Governor Terry Sanford. These interesting and varied activities provided bandmembers with one of the best years ever!

One of the main features of the first band concert was this group af salaists, who played "Beguine for Flutes."

Mory Homilton Bruce, Elizobeth Beoch, ond Mory Fronces Ludwig. Third row: Bill Cole, Richord Triplett, Rolph Prestwood, ond Buddy Borlowe.

It will be the responsibility of these future teachers of America to educate our youth. They will strive to develop the qualities needed to dedicate themselves to this all-important task of shaping young lives—physically, mentally, and morally.

These officers of the F.T.A. set high gools as they dreom of becoming moster teochers. They ore Mory Homilton Bruce, treosurer; Potricio McColl, secretory; Judy Hinson, vice-president; ond Peggy Beoch, president.

F. T. A.

Prospective teachers Potricio McColl and Mory Wolsh ore conferring with the student teacher Mrs. Bill Holmon about the rewords of teaching.

"Take me out to the ball game!" is a phrase that will live on as long as there are ball games anywhere—football games battled out on the gridiron, the blazing action of a player dribbling down court for a basket, the call of "Str-r-ike three, you're out!" Then, come the swiftness of track, the brawn of wrestling, the precision of golf. Whatever the game, win or lose, L. H. S. is behind its Bearcats "to do or die as always victory brings."

ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL

The Bearcats' bravest fullback, Tom Shuford, again proves his capability as he drags a Newton-Conover tackler along with him for a substantial gain.

Head coach Bruce Jaynes gives halfback Jim Poarch some helpful advice before entering the game.

The gridiron greats of L. H. S. proved that they are capable of fine teamwork and 100% effort as they grabbed a share of the conference championship in the NWC. This was their best year since 1956.

The mighty Bearcats just keep rolling along as they rolled up a 8-2-0 overall season record.

David Beach grinds out valuable yardage against Newtan-Conover.

Head caach Bruce Jaynes, ca-captains Dennis Hamby and Buddy Barlawe, line caach Jack Pennell, and juniar varsity caach Charles Hape are delighted with the Bearcats' successful seasan.

The smiling Ladycats hope ta have a fine season this year. They are Camilla Triplett, Debby Austin, Phyllis Bowman, Mary Jane Nelson, Nancy Setzer, Janice Smith, Laura Janes, Newland Townsend, Jennifer Jaynes, Gail McNeil, Judy Fender, Marsha Talton, Rebecca Prestwoad, Becky McGowan, Linda Swanson, and Karen Triplett.

The aspiring female athletes of L. H. S. turn their attention to basketball in the fall each year. The 1962-1963 season brings hopes and chances for a rewarding season.

"Hey! Look, Mrs. Bolick, he's gaing to toke aur picture!" Smiles were everywhere on picture day, and this tria was na exception: Sherry Rice, manager; Janice Smith, captain; and Mrs. Bolick, coach.

The girls never soy die, and teom spirit encaurages them to canstantly strive far the "win."

"Get that ball!" This often-heard cry resounds within the ivy-covered walls of our gym on Tuesdays and Fridays.

"Jump high! Get that rebound!" The Lady Bearcats always show fine spirit and determination for the hometown fans.

"Don't let her get away!" The Bearcats are well known for their defensive talents.

When the creaking sounds of the hardwoods begin in the gym, basketball time has come again. At L. H. S., fine basketball teams are a tradition, and highly successful seasons are just as much a part of the year as band concerts and the Spring Formal.

Leorning the game of bosketboll takes time and effort. Coach Hope explains a play to the five senior starters: Jimmy Poarch, Jerry Shuford, Mike Gibbons, Tom Chester, and Bruce Dovis.

Bruce Davis shoots o "jumper" os the Bearcots pad their leod with two more points.

Many games are won or lost at the foul line, a strang point af the Bearcats. Mike Gibbons, Bill Crowe, Jerry Shufard, Tam Chester, and Jim Paarch are ready to grab the rebound.

BASKETBALL

 $\mbox{\sc Bill}$ Cale leaps high to make a shot as $\mbox{\sc Bill}$ Crawe waits in a rebound position.

TRACK

In the first meet at NCSD, Ed Witort scored seven points. He took first place in 120-high hurdles and third in 180-low hurdles. Jeff McMillan won the 440. Bob Walker was third in the mile, Bill Kennerly tied for third in the pole vault, and Jerry Shuford placed fourth in the broad jump.

In the second NCSD meet, Ed Witort won both hurdle events, and Johnny Wilson captured first place in the high jump.

On April 19 at Cook Stadium, Johnny Wilson won the discus and high jump competition, and placed second in the pole vault. Ed Witort placed first in both hurdle events, as usual, and "Ab" Shuford leaped to first place in the broad jump.

On April 27 at NCSD, Witort took first in the 120-high hurdles, but he slipped to second in the low hurdles event. Johnny Wilson gathered a first place win in the high jump and was in a three-way tie for first in the pole vault.

At the bi-conference meet, Witort won the low and high hurdles; Wilson won the high jump and a second place in the pole vault; and Jerry Shuford placed second in the broad jump.

On May 11 at the WNCHSAA meet at Davidson, Witort grabbed a second place in both the hurdle events. Johnny Wilson and Bill Kennerly tied for third in the pole vault.

"Are you still using that greasy kid stuff?" Eddie Witort displays his championship form in the hurdles.

Larry Kirby shows fine form in hurling the slippery discus.

 $^{\prime\prime}\text{Ab}^{\prime\prime}$ Shuford flies high for the cinder men of L.H.S. in broad jump competition.

1962 was a rebuilding year for the track men of L. H. S. Certainly their future is brighter because of the experience gained. Never count these keen competitors out; they always battle to the end.

Mike Gibbons loses to two speedy opponents in the 100 yard dash.

These cheerful fellows are the members of the 1962 conference-winning baseball team of Lenoir High School. They are First row: Randy Coffey, Dennis Whitener, Steve Abel, Donnie Church, Bill Cole, Larry Taylor, Brent Smith, Richard Greer, Jimmy Poarch, Doby Greer, and

"I'm gonna strike ya out!" Joe Bost shows fine determination and spirit while throwing a curve to the opposition.

1962 proved to be a great year for the diamond men of L. H. S. as they captured the NWC crown with a near perfect 9-1 record.

GOLF

The first L. H. S. galf team was arganized in 1962, adding to the list of Bearcat athletics. Outstanding performances on the links were predaminant. The team shawed fine determination and spartsmanship in what praved to be an encouraging roakie year.

WRESTLING

The Bearcat grapplers have naw wan the recagnitian that they so hanestly deserve fram the students at L. H. S. The team members imprave their skills each year by means of hard-faught practice sessions and rigid physical canditianing.

These fellows had the honor of being members of the first L.H.S. golf team: Mike Cross, Bruce Vanderbloemen, Danny Anderson, Bill Mitchum, Richard Vanderbloemen, David Alexander, and John Wall.

ner, June Sides, Vicki Davis, Fredel Thompson, and Sara Stroupe.

Personality, charm, wit, intelligence, beauty-these are the qualities which make up the outstanding students at Lenoir High. Senior superlatives elected for their respective talents; charming marshals serving at the festivities; cheerleaders whose pep and enthusiasm inspire the "Go, Bearcats!" heard at every game; the hard work and ingenuity which make each year's Junior-Senior the best yet; and the parade of beautiful girls in their "moment of glory" highlighting the year at the annual Homecoming game, make the big moments for L. H. S. students.

MARSHALS

George Jahnsan and Sandra Riddle are glad when that "third number" is aver, and they can rest at last!

The marshals at Lenoir High have the task of being good representatives at all times. They must be congenial and helpful in showing people to their seats and presenting them with programs.

Our varsity cheerleaders have done a wonderful job of raising school spirit to its peak. First row: Mary Sue Church, Judy Torrence, Judy Hinson, Brenda Benfield, head cheerleader; Gail Anderson, Frances Dayvault, and Linda Bush.

Remember... the air of excitement as the cheer-leaders led the Bearcats onto the field.

Remember... those big games and those heartwarming and heartaching touchdowns.

Remember... those pep rallies, "Beat Hickory" signs, and the cheerleaders neverending efforts to rouse the stands.

Remember... basketball season — the crowded and noisy gym.

Remember... the cheerleaders somehow seemed to be so much a part of this.

CHEERLEADERS

Artfully decorating the goal posts for on upcoming game is part of the fun of being a cheer-leoder.

The L.H.S. cheerleaders reolly yell even when they're not leading the students in the school cheers.

JUNIOR-SENIOR

The atmosphere of the bustling, but blissful Peppermint Lounge of New York City prevailed in swirls of red and white at the 1962 Junior-Senior. The hardworking juniors created this mood after exhausting both originality and imagination in hopes of presenting the "best ever."

Bob Wolker's hilorious take-off on Jack Benny storted the long-owoited talent progrom.

Five couples presented the main performance of the 1962 Junior-Senior with a lively exhibition of the twist.

Linda Fox, Carol Roach, Sandra Riddle, Gail Anderson, and Ruth Keyes, alias the "Candy Stripes", entertained an enthralled audience with several numbers.

The Bearcat Staff and the students of Lenoir High School unite in sincerest appreciation for the support of the generous citizens of Lenoir whose interest in L. H. S. made possible the publication of the 1962-1963 Bearcat. To the students who made the subscription drive a success, to the typing staff for its tolerance and accuracy, to the faculty for its perserverance, and to the photographer, David Rufty, for his time and effortthe annual staff gives its warmest thanks.
